Announcements and Updates

- In anticipation of State Corporation Commission (SCC) approval of the construction timeline for the Cunningham-Dooms 500kV rebuild project, Dominion will begin limited pre-construction activities, such as soil testing, this month.
 - Residents will be notified beginning this week (the week of February 13) of the work.
- In the next few weeks, Dominion employees and contractors will be accessing properties in the existing right of way corridor to begin this testing.
 - Will use a moderately sized piece of boring equipment and trucks to gather the soil to better determine structure foundation specifications.
 - No new right of way or access points are needed for this activity.
- Cunningham-Dooms transmission line in operation since the 1960s.
 - On March 2, 2016, Dominion Virginia Power filed its application with the SCC to rebuild the line, and the company received the hearing examiner's final report on November 9, 2016.
 - That report recommended to the SCC Commissioners that there is an established need and the project reasonable minimizes impacts, and that the project should be approved.
