- February 3rd

Announcements and Updates

---

- In the United States, up to 19% of teens experience sexual or physical dating violence, about half face stalking or harassment, and as many as 65% report being psychologically abused
- Signs of teen dating violence can include:
  - Telling a partner who they can or cannot hang out with or follow on social media
  - Looking through messages on a partners' phone without permission
  - Inconsistent school attendance
  - Sudden request to change a class schedule
  - Constant worrying about making a partner angry
  - Joking about a partner's violent behavior or temper

(US Department of Justice, Office of Justice Programs)
- Talk to your teens about healthy, safe relationships. For more information on teen dating violence and available resources, please visit www.loveisrespect.org, ojp.gov/feature/teen-dating-violence/overview or contact the Fluvanna Victim/Witness Assistance Program at 434-591-1985.
